1	Evaluation and review of programs may fully and visibly consider licensure exam passing rate, employment rates, graduate and stakeholder feedbacks. This could be done through a simple study	The academic units analyzed the results of the licensure examinations, comparing the program's passing rate against the national passing rate and showing the trend. Sample attached is the analysis of the results of Professional Licensure Examination for Teachers. Furthermore, Bicol University is currently conducting an institutional tracer study to assess the employment status and career progression of its graduates. This study aims to gather data on how well the university's programs have prepared its alumni for the workforce, focusing on the relevance of their education to their current jobs. The feedback to be collected from graduates and their employers will help the university improve its curriculum and better align it with industry needs.
